

RELEASE PLAN

Product Name: tabspace

Team Name: tabspace

Release Name: tabspace Peppermint

Revision Number: 0

Revision Date: 2016-10-04

High Level Goals

1. Users can organize/control their browser tabs by setting up personal tabspaces. The extension will open preselected sites automatically when the browser starts, the user turns on tabspace, and selects their desired tabspace.
2. Implement an auto-refresh feature.
3. Implement a user-friendly interface.

User Stories

Sprint 1:

Who	What	Why	Story Points
As a student,	I want to be able to tell my browser whether I'm doing schoolwork or socializing so that it can open only relevant tabs on startup and block certain sites accordingly	So that I can study more efficiently and be less distracted.	8
As a worker,	I want to be able to organize multiple work projects	So that I can focus on one project at a time.	5

Sprint 2:

Who	What	Why	Story Points
As a researcher,	I want to be able to organize my abundant research in some type of tree that is easier to follow	So I am better able to follow multiple threads of research simultaneously.	8
As an online shopping	I want to be able to pull up my favorite online retailers	So I can keep updated with changing prices and shop	5

enthusiast,	at once and have them auto-refresh regularly	more efficiently.
-------------	--	-------------------	--

Sprint 3:

Who	What	Why	Story Points
As a person who uses social media,	I want to be able to view all my social media sites clearly on one screen	So I can get updated on them faster.	5
As a tabspace developer,	I want to be able to view statistics on how people are using the extension	So I can use the data to improve user functionality.	8

Product Backlog

Who	What	Why	Story points
As member of a team,	I want to be able to share tabspaces with my coworkers	So I can save time having to send multiple links to them.	20
As a customizer,	I want to be able to set up themes for each of my tabspaces and the tabs they create	So I can distinguish between my tabs easily and see all my favorite colors to brighten up my day!	5
As a potential tabspacer,	I want to browse to the tabspace website	So I can know exactly what I'm getting into, and any prevelant information about tabspace.	5